

700 CHILDREN GIVE CONCERT

Eighty at a Time, The Grade School Pupils Delight Their Parents and Friends Who Fill High School Auditorium.

The concert given by the pupils of Kingston's graded schools at the High School on Friday evening, was a great success, put over by a great many little folks and young folks, under the leadership of Supervisor of Music C. R. Spaulding, and his assistant, Miss Burgett. The whole affair was most admirably handled for it requires considerable engineering, persuading and interest to get almost seven hundred children in groups of eighty into an auditorium, onto a stage and off again and that with little or no apparent disturbance. A few fussy parents did much to mar the pleasure of those in their vicinity during the singing and playing of different numbers, but the children behaved as splendidly as they sang. Never was the natural grace of childhood made more apparent than in the conducting of the pupil-leaders. For the most part the children in the choruses watched their leaders carefully and those leaders who held the closest attention of their singers, of course, got best results. Even when there was part singing of the numbers, the children kept very close to pitch, and in some instances quite true, and their enunciation was so clear-cut that it was easy and enjoyable to listen to the text as well as the song. Only one grade was on the stage at one time, with the exception of one number, so in order to entertain the boys and girls who had to wait over an hour to do their bit, Supervisor Spaulding had persuaded "Magician" Van Deusen to come to the rescue. Mr. Van Deusen went from room to room where there were pupils waiting and had them all delighted with his "magic" so they quite forgot the time was waiting time.

In welcoming the auditorium-filling audience, Superintendent Michael, said that it was good to feel that these concerts had become annual affairs and told the friends of the children, that the success of the concert was due not only to the hard and faithful work of Supervisor Spaulding and Miss Burgett but to the hard and faithful work of the teachers in the graded schools who did the daily drudgery of practice work.

The program opened with an orchestral number, "America's Finest," by Zamecnik. The orchestra was as remarkable as the singing. It was composed of forty-three musicians, and the playing of the strings—thirty-six violins—was remarkably good. The three wind instruments were good, too, as were the drums, but the string quality was the exceptional feature. Special mention should also be made of the piano accompanying of Genevieve Main, a very youthful musician showing most unusual talent and excellent training.

Nothing sweeter was ever seen in Kingston than the eighty tots of the first grade, who sang like little birds, all together, so everybody knew just what they were singing about. Two pretty songs, "Rock-a-bye Baby" by S. W. Cole and "My Dog Carl" by the same composer. Little Forrest Bouton was the leader and he was fine, holding his singers together in great shape and making them give attacks and releases of the verses that many an adult chorus could well envy.

The Second Graders were only a very few shades bigger than the first singers, and they were wonderfully fully by Josephine Perry, who was not one mite larger than a six-year-old. Though the back row of youngsters could not have seen more than the tip of her baton, they watched that with eagle eyes, and sang "When the Night Comes" and "The Swing," both by S. W. Cole, beautifully.

Then the program was varied with a violin solo—a very ambitious number, "Rondo Capriccioso," by Saint Saens, played by Kendall Zelliff, accompanied by Miss Reynolds. Young Zelliff has plenty of talent, gets into the music he plays, memorizes remarkably and played so well that he was called back for an encore number.

Mildred Haas was the excellent leader of the Third Grade, which sang, especially well, "God, Our Father, Loves us Well" by Franz Mair and "Little Things" by Rosette G. Cole. The Fourth Grade boys and girls sang their numbers, "Lead Us" by Heinrich Albert and "To a Lunnet" by F. A. Hoffmeister, very nicely under the leadership of Anna Parnett.

Then a remarkable thing happened. The orchestra played "Rosebuds" by Zamecnik so well that they were obliged to play an encore number which was also greatly enjoyed.

Two very effective and delightful numbers were "The Boholink" by Thomas Tapper, and "Little Clouds" by Mary Chater, sung admirably by the Fourth Grade pupils who were very well led by Frances Menchin.

The Sixth Grade boys and girls sang a more elaborate number, "Wake, Wake" by F. von Flotow, which Helen Vandermark conducted excellently.

Genevieve Main further showed her musical talent by playing as a solo number, "Valse Arabesque," by Theodor Lack. It was played with unusual interpretation and technique and was enthusiastically applauded to an encore.

"One by One," by Adelaide A. Proctor, was the song which the seventh grade pupils sang delightfully under the leadership of Frances Altman, while the eighth grade

CHILDREN'S COURT GETS THEM YOUNG

Gang Whose Members are 7 to 9 Years Old Suspected of Downtown Depredations—Nine Children and Parents Quizzed.

In children's court Friday afternoon nine of the children who were suspected of knowing something of the raid on the Hosler Ice Cream Company store on lower Broadway and at the New Lyric Theater on The Strand, appeared before Judge Joseph M. Fowler and were examined at length. After the children and their parents were interviewed the matter was held open pending further investigation into the matter.

At the Hosler Ice Cream plant several days ago the cooler where the cream is kept was opened and a large amount destroyed and the remainder was made soft so that customers of the company were compelled to use soft cream the next day. Had the fact not been discovered, the cooler would have been rendered useless and the loss to the company much larger. The children denied having any knowledge of this affair. The same denial was made in connection with the New Lyric Theater matter. Here a large amount of damage was done by some youthful residents of the city. The same gang suspected in both cases and also in connection with other acts in the lower part of the city.

At the hearing in children's court the parents of the children were present and examined as well as the children themselves. A number of complaints have been received by the police of the work of a gang of small children in the lower section of the city. The ages of the children involved range around seven and nine years upwards.

REV. FR. FAGAN TO LEAVE ST. MARY'S

Throughout the diocese of New York Roman Catholic Churches, a number of appointments have been made by Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes. Recently a large class from St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, was ordained to the priesthood and these young priests all received assignments. The Rev. Edmund Patrick Murray of this city, a member of the class assigned to the Immaculate Conception Church, Stapleton, Long Island.

A change has been made in St. Mary's Church, this city, removing the Rev. George Fagan to St. Joseph's Church, Manhattan, of which the Rev. John J. Hickey, formerly of St. Mary's is pastor. Father Fagan has been with the congregation of St. Mary's but for a short time, coming here a year ago following his ordination. The parishioners of St. Mary's along with Father Fagan's acquaintances throughout the city will regret to learn of his departure. Since coming here his work has been very noticeable, winning the support of the congregation by his zealous and untiring efforts he accomplished work which was highly commended by his pastor, the Rev. Joseph B. Sullivan. The good wishes of St. Mary's go with Father Fagan to his new field of endeavor.

The Rev. Thomas Keane, newly ordained, succeeds Father Fagan.

KINGSTON MEN U. C. T. OFFICERS

Edward S. Morris of Kingston was elected grand conductor of the United Commercial Travelers of New York state at the twenty-third annual grand council session being held in Oneonta. The officers elected Friday are: Elmer Doolittle, New Rochelle, grand counselor; past grand counselor, H. Spencer Rowe, Oneonta; grand junior counselor, Harold C. Norton, Rochester; grand secretary, Walter M. Winn, Utica; grand treasurer, C. R. Eggleston, Watertown; grand conductor, Edward S. Morris, Kingston; grand page, Frank Allen, Buffalo; grand sentinel, Thomas Nicholson, Rochester; grand executive committee: Judson G. Wins, chairman, Rochester; E. Field, Elmira; S. W. Vanarsy, Schenectady; H. Spencer Rowe, Oneonta; Walter M. Winn, Clinton; C. R. Eggleston, Watertown.

Arthur Shafer, and W. G. George of Albany and Mason E. Shultis of Kingston were among the eighteen delegates named to the supreme council session at Columbus, Ohio, the latter part of this month. R. A. Defreest, Albany, E. S. Morris, Kingston, and E. A. Davis of Troy have been named among the alternates.

sang Franz Abt's lovely "Evening," in parts, remarkably well with Zaida Follette as leader.

Then came the big number sung by all of the pupils of both seventh and eighth grades, one hundred and sixty in all: "The Lost Chord" by Arthur Sullivan. Kenneth Van Valkenberg was the soloist, there was quite a little part singing in the number, which Supervisor Spaulding conducted and Miss Burgett accompanied. It was all very well sung.

The program closed with an orchestral number, "Our Boys" by Zamecnik.

LEGG'S MILLS SITE USED 218 YEARS

The awards made in the sixth separate report of Ashokan Damage Commission No. 5, consisting of Messrs. Murray, Sheridan and McGrath, to Mayor Walter P. Crane, Margaret Kerr and Peter Gallagher, for $6,500 for the depreciation in value of the Legg's Mills property, not only is the largest award made by that commission, but is by far the most interesting historically of any award made by any Ashokan reservoir commission since the initiation of the project of the city of New York to build that reservoir, and its connecting aqueduct. The abstract of title to Legg's Mills prepared and filed with the commission by Judge Clearwater, who represented the owners, went back to a deed of the trustees of Kingston to Wilhelmus de Meyer, dated February 27, 1688, covering eight hundred acres of land, the consideration being the payment by him to the trustees of one-half bushel of winter wheat every year. Following that deed was one executed by the trustees to de Meyer and Abram Gasbeek Chambers, the adopted son of Thomas Chambers, the original patentee of the Manor of Fox Hall, bearing date March 1, 1709, which granted not only land, but the right to erect a grist mill. This was followed by a confirmatory grant of the trustees to Baltus Kieffer, dated January 9, 1805, by which the trustees granted to Kieffer "All that certain fall of water situated in the town of Kingston, commonly called Kieffer's Falls, together with the privilege of erecting a dam thereon of a safe height to lead water to his mill or mills, which said mill dam is not to dam the waters so high as to overflow or injure any of his neighbors' lands." Under these grants a mill has been constructed on the present site of Legg's Mills for two hundred and eighteen years.

VAG'S 30-DAY REST BEGINS WITH WORK

William Ryan, 40 years old and a stranger in this section of the country, was picked up Thursday night at Marlborough where, he had broken into a box car, probably to sleep, and was arraigned before Justice of the Peace D. S. Hutchins on a charge of vagrancy. William said he hailed from Chicago and was a laborer but was unable to get any labor. The judge offered to suspend sentence and allow him to go to work on a farm where work could be easily secured at this season of the year but William asked for 10 days to rest up. He was given the ten days and twenty additional days to rest and was brought to the county jail by William McConnell to commence his 30 days' vacation. He said he had been convicted several times before and could not remember just how many times. The charges before had been drunk and train riding, etc. He was assigned to his room in the county jail and then set to work cleaning up the cellar where the 41 cases of beer had been disposed of Thursday, and which was badly in need of cleaning.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

Priscilla Dean in "The Flame of Life," a smashing dramatic story of action and romance by Frances Hodgson Burnett is programmed again tonight at Keeney's. Also Buster Keaton in his latest comedy, "The Frozen North." Starting Monday is "What a Wife Learned," a drama.

Dustin Farnum in "Bucking the Barrier" is the attraction at the Opera House tonight. Coming Monday and Tuesday Buck Jones in "The Footlight Ranger."

Alice Lake, one of the most popular stars of the screen, is seen opposite Herbert Rawlinson in one of the two feminine leading roles of "Nobody's Bride," the Universal picture, which will have its first showing at the Auditorium today.

INSURANCE PAID ON LOST CARGO OF BRICK

The Insurance Company of North America through its Hudson River Marine Agents, the McEntee Insurance Agency of this city, have made prompt settlement with the Hendricks Brick Company for the loss of the cargo of 350,000 brick on the barge Fred P. Luther, which was sunk off Grassy Point on Monday morning when the Rensselaer rammed the stern of a Cornell tow. Drafts covering total loss under the cargo policies were delivered to F. Luther today. The Insurance Company of North America is one of the oldest in existence, having been in business for over 130 years.

A Coming Wedding.

The marriage of Charles Dickhaut, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dickhaut of Washington avenue, Saugerties, and Miss Agnes Johnson of Richmond Hill, will occur at the latter place, Sunday June 17th.

Bass Season Open June 10.

The open season for the taking of black bass will open June 10. No bass under ten inches long may be taken and 15 is the limit one person may take in one day. Their sale is prohibited.

MONDAY NOON "DEADLINE" ON TICKETS FOR DINNER

Reservations for the Chamber of Commerce dinner at the Eagle Hotel Monday evening at 8 o'clock must be secured from Chamber of Commerce headquarters before Monday noon. There will be no charge for the dinner, but only the first 175 who make reservations can be accommodated. Edward F. Trefz, recommended by merchants' associations all over the country as one of the best speakers they have heard, will deliver an address.

REST ROOM AND CHAMBER DRIVE

Friday evening the team captains and many workers in the campaign for more members to be put on by the Chamber of Commerce next week gathered at the Eagle Hotel and made final arrangements for the canvass.

Preceding this there was a meeting of the directors of the Chamber at which E. W. Hathaway of the Farm Bureau and Miss Fischer of the Home Bureau presented a proposal for a cooperative rest room for out of town visitors somewhere in the up-town section that would make it unnecessary for them to lounge around hotels or stores while waiting transportation to their homes. President Burns was authorized to name a committee to look into the matter.

KINGSTON BOYS WEST POINT GRADS

Two Kingston boys are in this year's graduating class at West Point. Dan Chandler, elder son of Dr. and Mrs. George P. Chandler, and Frederick E. Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Phillips.

During the war and for several years following, the course at the United States Military Academy was cut down to three years. The present graduating class numbering nearly 200, is the first one to resume the full four year course at West Point as it was before the war.

Both Lieut. Chandler and Lieut. Phillips will remain in the army, the former in the field artillery and the latter in the infantry.

Following their graduation on Tuesday next, both young men will join a party of army officers, classmates all, who will spend six weeks of their summer's leave travelling in Europe. They sail June 19 on the Mauretania and return in August for a short visit at home before being ordered to their posts.

SALE FOR BLIND OPEN TONIGHT

The sale of articles made by the blind folks of this state, which has been carried on all week at 774 Broadway, will remain open until 10 o'clock this evening. Friday the women of the Presbyterian and Jewish Churches were in charge and in spite of the inclement weather sold nearly $150 worth of goods. Today the women of the Lutheran and Baptist Churches will be in charge of the sale. The food sale at the Van Wageningen Store for the Minnie Houghtaling Fund will also continue through the day today, unless the patronage is so great that the ladies run out of food.

Play at Vassar College.

At Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, on Wednesday, June 13, at sunset the play, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be given by the Community Theatre players.

BUSINESS DAY 64 DAY as the Government sees it PREPARED BY RALPH F. COUCH

BAPTIST MISSION CONFERENCE HELD

The mid-year conference of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the Hudson River Central Baptist Association was held on Friday at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church. A large number of delegates were present from the women's missionary societies of the Baptist Churches in the Hudson valley and nearby territory. Mrs. Arthur S. Cole of this city, the president of the organization, presided throughout the conference.

The morning devotional services were led by Mrs. H. C. Madden. The morning session was mainly a business session with reports of the New York district meeting at Utica and also reports from the different department heads.

The main feature of the afternoon session and in fact of the entire conference itself was an address by Miss Ruth Howard, a missionary sent out by the Baptist Church, now located in Porto Rico.

Miss Howard opened her address by giving her audience a picture of the general conditions in Porto Rico at the present time, a picture of the people themselves, their mode of living, their customs and also a resume of the economic conditions of the country. She then told about the religious life of the Porto Ricans. She contrasted the religious life with the religious life in our country and then showed what the Baptist Church is doing today to improve the lot of these people. Schools, hospitals and churches are being built up throughout the island and the chance that they are making in the people who come in contact with them is marvelous. The young people are beginning to see life in an entirely different way and as a result are beginning to be a decided help to the missionaries from the various churches in their work. These institutions are bringing into existence leaders for the Porto Rico of tomorrow.

TRANSACTIONS IN REAL ESTATE INSIDE CITY

Elizabeth M. Staples and others have sold to Joseph Krieger a two-family dwelling at the corner of Wall and St. James street.

Frank A. Kline has sold to William C. Kingston his fine residence property on the easterly side of Highland avenue.

Carlie L. Ettell and Laura C. Ettell have conveyed to Mildred M. Cochran a residence property with large plot of ground on Hurley avenue, being the property sold by Joseph Krieger to the Ettells on Friday.

Alvah S. Staples and others have sold to Morris Yallum the large building at the corner of Hone and West Union street.

BRITISH ECONOMISTS STUDY GERMAN OFFER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, June 9.—British economic experts today studied the latest German reparations offer while the cabinet marked time until it receives their report. British officials are observing closely the reaction of the German proposals upon the other Allies.

Premier Stanley Baldwin will summon a cabinet council early next week to canvass the situation.

Service Club's Festival.

The Service Club of the Fair Street Reformed Church will hold a festival on the lawn of the church corner Fair and Pearl streets, on Tuesday afternoon and evening, June 19. Strawberries, ice cream and homemade cake will be served.

Quarterly Bank Dividend.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Kingston Savings Bank held last evening, June 8th, a quarterly dividend at the rate of 1% per annum was declared for the three months ending June 30th, payable July 1st, 1923.

NEW TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL SOUGHT

Round Table Discussion Between State, County and City Authorities—State Architects to Examine and Report on Possibilities of City Home and Present Site.

"As statistics show that there is an average of 100 deaths annually in Ulster county each year," Dr. Matthias Nichol, deputy commissioner of the state health department, stated at a formal talk over the question of an enlarged tuberculosis hospital for the county that theoretically one of 100 beds at an approximate cost of $2,000 a bed was needed.

The board of managers of the Ulster county tuberculosis hospital, the committee on tuberculosis hospital of the board of supervisors and the members of the board had been invited to meet representatives of the state health department on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the law office of Judge Fowler in the Cardis building and those who were present adjourned to the supervisors' room. As Judge Fowler, who is president of the board of managers of the hospital, was engaged in children's court, he was unable to attend.

At the gathering were Deputy Commissioner Dr. Nichol, Dr. McSorley, in charge of the tuberculosis department of the state board of health, and Dr. Laidlaw, sanitary supervisor of this district. The supervisors' committee, Supervisors Weiss, McGee, Conklin, E. Young and Brown, and Dr. Mary Gage-Day, Dr. Mark O'Meara, John D. Fratscher and E. Young were also present

WOMEN ACTIVE IN INVENTION FIELD

Patent Office Shows Long List of Their Achievements.

NOT ALL ARE HOME ARTICLES

People who imagine that women show little activity in the field of invention would have the surprise of their lives if they could go over the records of the United States patent office, said a recent bulletin of the women's bureau of the Department of Labor. The records of the patent office show that women have invented everything from a rotary plowshare to an egg beater, the women's bureau said.

"Of course, most of the things women have invented have been articles for use in the household," the bulletin added, "a holder for hot utensils, a kettle polisher and scraper, a kitchen cabinet, a washing machine, a carper beater, a mattress turner, a mouse trap, and so on through a list of nearly 1,400 different items. Next to household equipment the largest number of inventions was of articles for personal wear or use, such things as hooks and eyes, shoe strings, shoes and tooth brushes, but not all of the inventions were as utilitarian as that. One woman even invented an artificial eyelash.

Not Confined to Home. "Women's inventive activities carry them much further afield, however, than the household. Women on farms have patented a lot of contrivances to make work easier or more efficient, and they haven't confined their imaginations to poultry raising and dairying, but have invented cultivators, seed planters, tractors and windmills, as well as incubators and churns.

"The same thing is true of all the other phases of industry and the professions. We have found women taking out patents for office supplies and equipment, for improvements to steam and street railway equipment, for methods of road building, for machinery of all sorts, as well as for many kinds of tools, musical instruments, toys and educational devices.

"It is interesting to know how women came to invent all these different things. Sometimes just the name of the invention will tell us what caused it. For instance, anyone who has ever milked a cow can easily imagine why a woman would invent a cow milk holder. Another woman invented a cover for pie pans because she said juicy pies were always overflowing in her oven, which wasted the best of her pie and left her with a dirty oven to clean. Many of us can sympathize with the woman who invented a reinforced wooden bowl after the bowl in which she was working butter split in two, spilling the butter into her lap. A woman who had spent many hot July days in a hospital invented a special ventilator which would make the room less stuffy.

SEEK MARK SUBSTITUTE

Germany Experiment With Bonds Based on Commodities.

In an effort to find a stable basis for investment, public and private German institutions have floated issues based upon some commodity rather than on the paper mark, says Consul O. N. Nielson of Berlin. In a report to the Department of Commerce, Rye, wheat, coal and coke have thus been used.

Although a bond based upon a commodity is not absolute protection for the investor, purchase of such bonds is a guaranty that depreciation will be limited by fluctuations in the price of the commodities. Further, a relative rise in the price of the commodity between the time of investment and maturity of the bond gives the investor an opportunity to profit.

HENS LAY EGGS IN TREES

Wild Strain Asserts Itself in Kingston Flock.

Some wild strain, lying dormant for years in the hens owned by Mrs. Amelle Henretty, who lives just outside of Kingston, N. Y., asserted itself a few days ago and is credited with causing the hens to abandon the chicken house and go to the trees to make their nests and lay their eggs.

Mrs. Henretty, who came to town the other day to buy an extension ladder, said she was getting too old to climb trees for hen's eggs. She said she was unable to account for the preference which the hens are showing for the trees, as the hen house is perfectly comfortable.

ILLINOIS TEAM LOWERS FOUR-MAN RELAY RECORD

University of Illinois great quarter-mile relay team which set a new world's record at the Drake games, Illinois, which last year was reported as a "has been" in conference track athletics for a couple of years at least, is showing again this year that Coach Harry Gill is a real magician when it comes to developing great track teams. Left to right in the photograph are Ayers, Evans, Hughes, Sweet and last, but most important of all, to Illinois at least, is Coach Harry Gill.

The Salt Lake club has sent Tony Lazzari to Peoria.

Pity the poor pitchers if the early heavy hitting continues throughout the season.

With Rommel and Hasty pitching true to form, the Athletics are far from an easy bunch to beat.

Joe Cosgrove, so they say, "wore out his welcome" in Waterbury, so he was traded to Hartford for Leo (Brick) Kane.

Allan Sotheron finally decided to give up his flourishing business in St. Louis and report to the Louisville Colonels.

Manager Frank Chance of the Boston Red Sox has announced the release of Pitcher Fowlkes to the Memphis club.

The New York Americans decided not to keep Outfielder Ollie Tucker and he was returned to the New Orleans Pelicans.

The first set of batting averages for the Coast League show Paul Strand off in front among the regulars with a percentage of .448.

Honus Mitze, joining New Orleans with a reputation as about a .197 hitter, has been getting some timely blows for the Pelicans.

Washington lent its hand toward boosting the New Haven Eastern league entry when it shipped Infielder Bobby Lamotte to George Weiss' club.

The name of Al Spalding is no longer on the big league rolls, for the Cleveland club has given the youngster with the famous name his unconditional release.

Catcher Wilson White, who was sold by Springfield of the Western association to a club in the South Atlantic league has been returned to Springfield.

Some of the commentators in Los Angeles are fearful lest Jake May be overworked, but Bill Essick says work is what his star southpaw needs to get right.

The Clinton club of the Oklahoma State league has named one of its officials, George Straub, as bench manager, with Fletcher Dennis directing the team as field captain.

By the grace of Commissioner Landis the Chicago White Sox got Outfielder Roy Elish from Sioux City for a mere $2,500. Now Chicago critics are saying that Elish is a more valuable member of the team than Willie Kamm, who cost $100,000.

Manager Frank Chance of the Boston Red Sox, who never did seem to fancy Eddie Goebel, the outfielder he got from Washington, managed to get rid of him by making a trade with Ty Cobb, by which Detroit gave Ira Flagstead, not liked by Cobb, for Goebel.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON FIELDING FLY BALLS

Player Should Not Try to Time Flight so as Barely to Make the Catch.

(By CARL LUNDGREN, Baseball Coach, University of Illinois.)

In fielding fly balls a player should get under the ball as fast as possible and should not try to time the flight so as barely to get to the ball. The reason for this is that if the man in question misjudges the direction and speed of the ball, if he gets there in plenty of time he will have an opportunity to shift so as still to get under it.

In catching fly balls the fielders should learn to catch them with palms up or with the palms up and the thumbs together. The first is usually the safer method, but it is well to practice both.

The following points should be considered in catching fly balls: In running to the spot where the ball will fall, run with the arms at the side, sprinter fashion, as this is the best method of carrying the arms when running. That is, the hands should not be carried in the air in a position of readiness for catching the ball while the fielder is running. When the ball hits the glove the receiver's hands should be relaxed and should give a little with the impact of the ball against the glove.

An outfielder should turn and run back as fast as he can to catch a ball over his head. He should not attempt to keep his eye on the ball while he is running, as this will slow him up. It is a difficult matter to catch the fly balls, in this manner, but a good outfielder should be able to do it.

Galluses May Aid Impetus to Swats

The fact shouldn't be overlooked that Babe Ruth's batting revival came along about the same time that Babe revived galluses as an article of wearing apparel.

Ruth discarded the customary belt last winter and his new suspenders, he maintains, were of material aid in the reduction of his tonnage.

Many of the old-time British golfers still wear galluses on the links because they give more freedom of action than the belt. And, like Babe Ruth, they hit out many a home run.

A one-man street car operated by Patrick Nells of New York, plunged backward down an incline on Amsterdam avenue in New York, when Nells lost control, and was not halted until it had crashed into and partially wrecked a six-story apartment house at the foot of the hill. The runaway car, it was estimated, was traveling at the rate of seventy miles an hour when it leaped from the tracks and fatally crushed 12-year-old Margaret McLaughlin, who was playing near the dwelling. Seven passengers were badly hurt. Nells, held for homicide, told the police that his brakes failed to work.

THE LESSON OF THE WAR.

In his Memorial Day address at Arlington, President Harding voiced again the outstanding lesson taught in the raising of men and supplies for the Great War. The soldiers who did the fighting and risked their lives and health in their country's cause were drafted and compelled to enter the trenches. No payment of money could compensate them for the appalling dangers into which they were led, and they were forced to accept $30 a month as a wage for their services. The men who were exempt from military duty, either because of age, physical defects, or other special reasons, were not drafted into the nation's service, their wages were free from any governmental limitation, and their work was not endangered by enemy guns. They were permitted unhindered to take full advantage of the tremendous demand for supplies and of the shortage of labor and to fix their prices accordingly. Too many of those exempt citizens made the most of their opportunities and became rich while their neighbors were fighting and dying for a mere pittance.

If war ever comes to the country again, all citizens must be treated alike in the obligations that are demanded of them. The young and physically fit must do the fighting, but those who do not pass that test must fit themselves into the war machine where their services can be utilized to best advantage. Every individual must subject himself to the orders of the government until the emergency has passed, and all must be treated alike so far as compensation and discipline are concerned. The principle set forth by President Harding is unassailable. If the draft policy is sound for our fighting men, then it is equally sound for those who man the industries that supply them with munitions and that support the population at home.

Standing amidst the graves of those who gave their lives in the World War, it was particularly appropriate for President Harding to refer to the conscienceless profiteering of some people at home while others were dying on the battlefield. The occasion was not only one for expressing gratitude to the heroic dead, but also for consecrating the living to an increased devotion to country. "It will be a more grateful nation," said the President, "which consecrates all to a common cause, and there will be more to share the gratitude bestowed. More, there will be a finer conscience in our war commitments, and that sublimity of spirit which makes a people invincible." "In all the wars of all time the conscienceless profiteer has put the black blot of greed upon righteous sacrifice and highly purposed conflict. In our fuller understanding of today, in that exalted consciousness that every citizen has his duty to perform, and that his means, his honor and his life are his country's in a time of national peril, in the next war, if conflict ever comes again, we will not alone call to service the youth of the land, which has, in the main, fought all the wars, but we will draft every resource, every activity, all of wealth and make common cause of the nation's preservation. God grant that no conflict will come again but if it does it shall be without profit to the non-combatant participants except as they share in the triumphs of the nation."

The League of Nations evidently has been stung by assertions from American sources that the league was really encouraging the consumption of opium in the world rather than restricting it according to the terms of the league covenant. We now have the remarkable statement from Geneva that Formosa is the international center for the drug trade, but that half of the Formosan supply comes from the United States. Of course all Americans know that the production of opium is outlawed in this country, and that any opium that goes from here must be a transshipment from some other source. But other nations are not acquainted with that fact, and are likely to believe from the league's statement that the United States is corrupting the world with a large drug crop, while at the same time criticizing the league for not taking more drastic measures for its suppression.

The man who uses false statements to bolster his cause pleads the weakness of his position. That is what the editor of the Woodstock, Ohio, "Democracy" does when he makes reference to what he calls "the hard times we have been experiencing during the Harding administration." Everybody in America knows that when the Harding administration came into power there were millions of men out of work and there was a demand that the government undertake construction work in order to give them employment. Now there is a scarcity of help and there is a demand that the government let down the immigration bars and postpone construction work until more labor is available. We did not suppose there was a Democrat anywhere in the United States who would deny the improvement in industrial conditions since the Republicans came into power.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. How much root, proportionately to the stem, does a plant take?
2. Why are the plumes of the Bird of Paradise so loose and fluffy, and not all a smooth web like ordinary feathers?
3. Are there any seals left in the southern hemisphere?

Answers in Monday's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Does it do any harm, while changing the water on gold fish, to put them into a pan of salt water for about five minutes? I did, and after taking them out, found they did not seem so frisky.

Handling the gold fishes never does them any good, and they do not thrive in an aquarium where the water has to be changed frequently. It should be kept pure by aquatic plants, which absorb carbonic acid gas and give out oxygen. Sick fishes are often greatly helped by a weak salt bath. Be sure not to use prepared table salt that has foreign substances in it. We can't be sure it was the salt bath that upset your pet—maybe they have been fed too much, or are too crowded.

2. Which of the warblers is commonest?

Probably the yellow warbler. Dendroica aestiva, sometimes called summer yellow-bird. It is easy to find as it comes about gardens and cultivated grounds, and does not go too deep woods as do many warblers. Often nesting in a currant bush, though occasionally higher up in a tree. The bird is sometimes confused with the goldfinch, but lacks the jetty cap, wings and tail of the finch; and the male yellow warbler has reddish streaks on its breast.

3. Do any insects use their legs to hold things with?

Yes, for instance the spider grasps its own thread when climbing by means of the claws at the tips of its legs; and the Praying Mantis has sharp spines on its fore legs, to seize and hold its insect prey.

LOCAL BARBERS ADOPT NEW STYLE HAIR CUT FOR SELVES.

Cut Their Hair "Dead Rabbit" Then Share Head.

There is no truth to the rumor that Kingston barbers have been attacked with an epidemic of hair falling out and are gradually becoming bald, although at first glance it may appear so to the casual onlooker.

The facts in the case are that many of the barbers have adopted a summer style for their own personal use. Of course, they will pass the style on to the regular trade who may desire it, but indications are that not many will.

The first thing to be done in adopting the new style hair cut is to have the hair cut the old fashioned "dead rabbit." Undoubtedly there are many men who read this who remember when they were boys and vacation time rolled around each summer and pa or ma took them by the hand and escorted them to the nearest barber shop where the tonsorial artist applied the clippers and cut the hair as close to the head as possible. By the time school opened in the fall the hair had grown long enough to have it cut again. If there was not a barber handy the village blacksmith obliged and used his horse clippers as skillfully as the barber.

In addition to the "dead rabbit" the local barbers then have the head shaved. Just what name has been adopted for the new style is not known. Probably the barber will enlighten those interested.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, June 9.—Twelve members of Hope Temple, No. 80, Pythian Sisters, attended the Pythian Sisters' Convention at Ellenville Thursday. The members of Hope Temple and members of A. W. Reynolds Temple, Kingston, were conveyed to and from in Spinneweber's bus.

The annual strawberry supper of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church will be held in the chapel Wednesday, June 13. The appetizing menu has been announced. After the supper an entertainment will be given. A silver offering will be taken.

At the regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association held Thursday afternoon several interesting and vital things were discussed and acted upon. The question of fire prevention brought forth the knowledge that the fire escapes on the school building in District No. 13, are unsafe for use. The last time they were used for fire drill a girl caught her heel in one of the open spaces on the ladder and was hurled several feet. A committee was appointed to notify the board of education and fire commissioners of this condition. This committee is also to request the town board to place signs on the highway to notify motorists of the presence of a school. The carelessness and thoughtlessness of the children to ride in the bus was considered. The children have the habit of jumping in the bus before it stops in order to secure the best seats and of changing seats while the auto is going at a good rate of speed. Other children who live in the village jump on the running board and ride to the corner sometimes there being as many as three or four on either side. The parents are no doubt ignorant of these dangerous practices but the children should be warned and the driver cautioned. At a previous meeting it was voted to purchase supplementary readers for the second grade, this as a beginning for better equipment for our schools which is hoped the tax payers will become interested in. Sanitary cups and towels and first aid kits are to be purchased and placed in the school. Anyone interested in child welfare and the betterment of the community are eligible to membership.

Hope Temple, No. 80, Pythian Sisters, will meet in their rooms on Broadway Monday evening, June 11, at 8 o'clock.

Baptism of infants. The members of the Reformed Church and Sunday School will be welcomed as guests. Epworth League devotional meeting 6:30. Leaders, Mrs. S. Paradee, Miss Alice LaPine. Topic, "What is Christian Civilization?" Union service at 7:30. The Rev. Martin Luther, pastor of the Reformed Church, will preach.

Church of the Presentation, the Rev. Thomas Sanderson, rector, Mass 7:30 and 10:30. Sunday school 2 o'clock.

There will be no services in the Reformed Church on Sunday morning or evening; in view of the Children's Day exercises in the Methodist Church, which will be attended by all. In the evening the pastor of the Reformed Church, the Rev. M. F. Luther, will preach the sermon in the union service in the M. E. Church. The Men's Club will meet in the lecture room of the Reformed Church on Wednesday evening at the usual hour. Prayer meeting on Thursday evening at 7:30.

Stenographer-Typist Exams.

In a special notice received this week by the Moran Business School, Burgevin Building, the New York state civil service commission calls attention to open competitive examinations to be held at various times and places after June 16, 1923. Competitors must be at least 17 years of age and must file applications not later than June 14. The exact schedule will be determined after applications have been filed. The commission further states that examinations may be held in any city where ten or more applicants desire to be examined. Both stenographic and typist examinations will be conducted, but either may be taken without the other. "Vacancies are constantly occurring," reads the notice, "and the opportunities for appointment are excellent."

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, June 9.—There will be preaching service in the Woodstock Reformed Church next Sunday, both morning and evening. If Dr. Nickleson is not able to preach, the Rev. Mr. Kerr will be present and preach. And if Mr. Kerr preaches his subjects will be, at 11 a. m., standard time, "That Life Whose Cost is One Per Cent," but whose Profit is 99 Per Cent. His subject for the evening is "David's Remedy for Cast Down Souls."

The Rev. Mr. Kerr preached at Woodstock for the Reformed people last Sunday morning and evening.

DIVORCES IN FRANCE DOUBLED SINCE WAR

Infidelity, Desertion and Lack of Moral Responsibility Given as Main Causes.

Divorces have doubled in France since the war, according to figures made public recently.

A general divorce law was first passed in France in 1884, and in that year there were 1,007 divorces.

In 1913, the number of divorces was 15,372. In 1919, when the armies were being disbanded and people were free to put their houses in order, this number reached 18,465.

In 1920 it reached 31,465, in 1921 the number was 30,498 and the last year 30,753.

The causes of this increase of divorces are not tabulated, due to the secrecy of court proceedings relating to family affairs.

However, the general causes are infidelity, desertion and the slow breaking up of the family tie during the war, with the greater freedom that has come to women who began to earn their living during the war.

But, it is said, have lost in some measure their sense of moral responsibility.

Another cause given is nervousness growing out of the war, making both sexes less able to bear the restraints and trials of married life. Yet another cause is the tolerance of the courts and the ease with which divorces may be obtained, one factor of which is the cheapness of the decree, obtained through lawyers, who, in recent years, have begun to advertise: "Divorce in three months, on credit, and no payment unless decree obtained."

STUDY HABITS OF AMERICAN FISH

Steps Taken to Ascertain Extent of Seasonal Movements.

TO TAG AND LIBERATE FISH

Any angler knows that the kinds of fish to be caught in the sea off New York in summer are different from those found there in the colder months of the year. The gentle southwest breezes of late springtime waft sun-warmed surface water from further south to New Jersey, Long Island and southern New England. With a higher water temperature these neighborhoods become agreeable for the weakfish, bluefish, summer flounder, locally called fluke, and various other southern species, which migrate to us from greater or less distances and spend the summer off our shores.

Then in October and November, J. T. Nichols of the American Museum of Natural History, writes in the New York Sun, the crisp, cold northwest wind sends the warm summer surface water dancing out to sea, and the temperature of the tide falls from week to week with that of the air. One by one the summer fishes find it too cold for comfort and go elsewhere. To take their place schools of cod now round the cape which bears their name, and this species, with others characteristic of the colder northern portions of the Atlantic, give us our winter fishing.

Mummy Fish Used as Bait.

There are also certain common fish that can get along in a greater range of water temperature and that have no very apparent migration, but are present at all seasons. For instance, there is the little killifish, also called "mummy," much in use for bait. The blackfish or tautog is here the year round, but too sluggish to take the bait in the coldest weather, and bites most actively in the spring and fall. The winter flounder, also called flatfish, is also a permanent resident. It is caught in the spring and fall, for it seems to lose appetite in summer, when the largest individuals have also probably moved over into deeper water.

Such, briefly, is the character of the migration of marine fishes as it occurs not only near New York but in all parts of the sea where there is a considerable difference between summer temperature and winter temperatures.

These migrations are not necessarily of a simple north and south character, more or less deflected to eastward or to westward along shore by the trend of the coast. There are two other quite different types to which the movements of a given species may belong, or they may be a combination of all three.

Toadfish Present Only in Winter.

To illustrate a second type take the case of the angler, sometimes erroneously called toadfish. This is a large sluggish fish with an enormous head and wide mouth with formidable teeth. It lies on the bottom in wait for smaller fishes and is said to lure them within reach by means of one or more peculiar flaps of skin at the summit of slender spines which rise from the top of its head. The angler is absent from the shore waters near New York city in summer and present there in winter. It is present coastwise in New England throughout the year, as also in deep water off New York city. From the depths outside to our bays is much less in actual distance than from New England would be. The angler is so sluggish a fish that one can scarcely conceive of its undertaking extensive travels and its migration is probably almost entirely up and down, from deep to shallow water, and vice versa. The movements of many fishes may partake somewhat of this character, just how much it is impossible to say.

All Fish More or Less Migratory.

A good deal could be written about fish migration; of how the young of tropical species accompany jelly fishes and seaweed drifting in the trend of the gulf stream, and appear sporadically in late summer and fall hundreds of miles north of where they belong; of how schools of menhaden, not found north of South Carolina in winter, and occurring in Nova Scotia in summer, prove an annual trip of 700 or 800 sea miles each way for that fish; but whatever is known on this subject merely emphasizes what is not known.

In our present state of knowledge, having eliminated every possible error from our deductions, those deductions become fragmentary and hazy in the extreme.

We have recently been informed that there is a movement on foot to tag and liberate codfish in the Atlantic, with a view to obtain definite information, when these fish are taken, as to extent and direction of the travels of an individual fish. This method has yielded valuable results as applied to the salmon of the Pacific coast. It seems to have first been tried in 1908, when, then an assistant in the United States bureau of fisheries, I well remember holding the slippery kicking salmon as they were drawn from the water of the Columbia river while Prof. Charles W. Greene of the University of Missouri attached a round metal button, like those used to tag the ears of sheep, at one side of the base of the fishes' tails.

Tagged Salmon Recaptured.

Of 30 fish thus marked in one day, August 14, 1908, near the mouth of the river, 17 were retaken and reported. Seven of them had traveled up to the Celilo rapids, a distance of 210 miles. Five of these long-distance fish were silver salmon. They made the trip in from 28 to 35 days after being tagged. The other two were steelheads. They went up the river in more leisurely fashion, one taking 85 days and the other 62 days.

The experimental tagging I refer to indicated that silver salmon and steelheads migrate at an average speed of from 6 to 7 1/2 miles a day, and probably more when wholly within fresh water. It also indicated that salmon carefully acclimate themselves to fresh water by swimming back and forth in tide water before undertaking the migration upstream. The movements of the Pacific salmon in entering and ascending rivers of the coast to spawn are now rather well understood.

It is time to gather as much definite information as we may about the movements of migratory sea fish, for without such information their conservation, which is a problem of national importance, is badly handicapped.

GENTLEWOMEN SUFFER WANT

Widows of Once Prominent Germans Pawn Clothes for Food.

Thousands of German gentlewomen are now going through the tragedy which Russian women of the same class have suffered for several years. Widows of officers and government officials, women with small pensions and limited incomes from investments, find themselves unable to buy the plainest food.

A few days ago the aged widow of a once prominent physician and her invalid daughter were found almost dead from hunger in their home, which had been stripped of every salable article.

In an effort to alleviate the condition of such persons and protect them from unscrupulous second-hand dealers, a number of philanthropic Berlin women have organized a fair, where second-hand articles may be offered for sale.

With German efficiency the members of the relief committee have provided tables behind which the sellers have chairs. They are mostly elderly women. Many of them are cripples, and almost without exception their worn and old-fashioned clothing indicates their gentle birth.

WARS ON SUMMER FURS

Blue Cross Society Hopes to Slacken Slaughter of Animals.

War is declared against the fashion of summer furs in a circular issued by the American Blue Cross society, with headquarters in Springfield, Mass. The purpose of the campaign is to check the slaughter of fur-bearing animals.

The society is seeking the concerted support of social leaders and publicists to put summer furs in the discard. The same body will be remembered by its fight upon vivisection, calling for an "open-door policy" in experimental laboratories.

The "call to arms" reads in part: "Every right-minded person should protest against such monstrously of fashion violating the laws of health and comfort, causing wastage that involves needless sacrifice of fur-bearing animals, and perverting every true sense of beauty and propriety."

TRICK NETS HIM $50,000

French Bank Clerks Robbed by Slight-of-Hand Artist.

Two Marseilles bank clerks were robbed of $50,000 by a clever ruse. They were paying in the money at the Bank of France, one man making out the paying-in slip while the other watched the package of money, which he had placed on the counter.

A stranger spoke to the latter, and pointing to two 50-franc notes on the floor, said: "Do these belong to you?"

The clerk, thinking he must have dropped them, bent down to pick up the notes. At the same moment the stranger substituted for the package of money on the counter a parcel which, when it was opened, was found to contain old newspapers. By that time the obliging stranger had vanished.

CASABLANCA AWAITS TOURIST

French Complete Improvement of Port on Moroccan Coast.

The work of constructing a port at Casablanca, Morocco, undertaken by the French, is done.

Fifty large steamships today can find anchorage in the artificial lake created by the breakwater.

This development is part of the French program to enlarge Morocco, Tunis and Algiers as trade centers, and especially to attract tourists.

There are now good hotels at points of interest, and good roads. Fifteen years ago Casablanca had 20,000 inhabitants; today it counts 100,000.

Rockefeller Foundation Pledges Additional $18,000,000 to Health Projects.

The Rockefeller foundation, chartered by a special act of the New York legislature ten years ago, has expended a total of $76,757,040 during the first decade of its existence, according to an official statement.

This sum represents all of the income of the fund and an additional $17,500,000 expended from the general fund or principal. A further sum of $15,000,000, payable in future years, has been pledged to various medical, health and public health projects.

Rickenbacker

A CAR WORTHY OF ITS NAME

The Open Road—In An Open Car

After all, there is no other type of automobile that that quite takes the place of that model which we know as the "Touring Phaeton."

More cars of that type are in use than of all other types combined.

For there is an exhilaration and a charm about riding in an open car that is not obtainable in any other.

The rush of fresh air to the nostrils—the caresses of the breeze on your cheeks—Motoring loses half its charm when even glass interposes between you and the great out-of-doors.

Why, if the first car you ever rode in had been a "glass show case" you never would have become a devotee of cross country driving.

Though you have a garage full of other models, still—and still—for a week-end trip and a warm evening jaunt, you need an open car.

This Rickenbacker Six Phaeton is our most popular model these warm spring days.

To the young especially its appeal is irresistible. And by the "young" we mean—not in years but in ability to enjoy.

To sense to the full the exhilaration of speed and to see unobstructed all the country side as you pass through, there is only one way—the open car.

Strangely enough too, this is the lowest priced model of all the beautiful Rickenbacker Sixes.

The demand is tremendous—and the factory underestimated the spring demand for this particular model.

Our quota of touring phaetons is limited.

Only the elect—those who decide quickly and place their orders at once—can hope to drive a Rickenbacker Open Car this season.

Touring Phaeton—$1485 Coupe—$1885 Sedan—$1985 All prices are f. o. b. factory, Detroit, Michigan, plus federal tax—and are subject to increase without notice. Deferred payments may be arranged.

WROUGHT WONDERS IN STONE

Work of Architects of the Twelfth Century Stand as a Challenge to the World.

The most laboriously wrought stone carving in the world, the temple of Chenna Kesava, at Belur, India, was built in the Twelfth century to celebrate the conversion to Vishnuism of a Jain ruler. Ferguson says of this particular temple: "The amount of labor which each particular facet of this porch displays is such as never was bestowed on any surface of equal extent in any building in the world."

Another masterpiece of sculptured stone, at Halebidu, India, ten miles from Belur, is greatly ruined now, and many of its gems have been removed to the museum at Bangalore. When intact it was the finest specimen of Indian art in existence. This column is one of the most marvelous exhibitions of human labor to be found even in the present East—for purposes anything in Gothic art. The effects are said to be just what the medieval architects were aiming at, but which they never attained so perfectly as was done at Halebidu. Ferguson further says, placing the Halebidu temple and the Parthenon in Athens as the two extremes of architecture: "It would be possible to arrange all the buildings of the world between these two extremes, as they tended toward the severe intellectual purity of the one or the playful, exuberant fancy of the other; but perfection, if it existed, would be somewhere near the mean."

HATPIN IN LEG 16 YEARS

Found in Muscle of Veteran's Leg a Foot From Point of Entry.

A two and one-half-inch hatpin which had been imbedded for 16 years in the right leg of James Connelly, twenty-seven years old, a World war veteran of New York, was removed at a point 12 inches from where it had entered.

Connelly, who served for two years in France, had the pin jabbed into him as a youngster when he was teasing a girl. He was reluctant to say anything about it at the time, but as he grew older he became more and more perturbed over the location of the pin.

The pin was found with its point in the muscle of his leg just above the knee and about an inch below the surface. It had worked down at least a foot.

DOG'S VIGIL EARNS MEDAL

Watched Body of Playfellow Killed by Automobile.

Pink, a terrier owned by C. Gilbert Hintz of Reading, Pa., was given a medal by the Women's Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals of Philadelphia, through Mrs. Madeline K. Vandergriff, treasurer. The dog stood guard for more than 24 hours recently over the dead body of a companion canine killed by an auto on a Reading street.

The story of eight-year-old Pink devoted to a dead comrade is now being used in public and Sunday schools as an illustration of lessons in fidelity.

After being taken away by his owner, Pink came back the next day and passed several hours more of mourning at the scene of the accident.

OPINION SETTING ASIDE BIG AWARD

The opinion of Justice Howard setting aside the award of $155,000 made by the Schoharie Damage Commission to the Tri-County Light and Power Company, as related in Friday's Freeman, is as follows:

After reading the report, opinion, briefs and voluminous papers here in, and after carefully studying the subject and comprehending it as well as I can, I have concluded that this award ought not to stand; for the reason that the commission pursued an erroneous theory in measuring the damages, which led them to an erroneous conclusion, and to an excessive award.

Judge Clearwater, the learned counsel for the claimant, points out in his brief the danger that another commission, if appointed, might regard itself as created for the distinct and sole purpose of reducing the award. I recognize this danger, but, of course, this should not deter the court from a correct application of the law in this case.

I shall, however, undertake to avoid the danger as far as possible in what I shall write. If the claimant is forced to try his case over again it should not be prejudiced because this commission has fallen into error or by the language of the court in pointing it out.

The commission, in a way, disregarded the condition and value of the property taken. They dealt largely with a hypothetical property. They assumed that a new modern 1,500 horse power hydro-electric plant could be built on the site of the claimant and that such a plant would produce a net annual revenue of $17,500. This amount capitalized at 12 1/2 per cent would result in a property worth $140,000. This commission, in the opinion, did not work the problem out quite to this solution but a slight computation will show that $17,000 is 12 1/2 per cent on $140,000. To this sum they added, somewhat arbitrarily, it would seem, $15,000 for "certain buildings, including the dam, flume and other development," and thus the total award of $155,000 was reached.

It is clearly apparent from the opinion that the hypothetical power plant, the plant which never existed at all, and which, consequently, has not been taken by the city, was the chief item of damage going to make up the total award. The tangible existent property, the real thing taken, received scanty value in compiling the $155,000.

By pursuing this method of measuring the damages the commission has run directly in the teeth of the Blackwell's Island case, 118 App. Div. 272, and also counter to the specific rule formulated by Lewis in his work on Eminent Domain, 3rd edition, sec. 709. This is the language of the latter writer: "If the property has a water power on it, this fact may be shown, but it would be incompetent to go on and show what mills might be constructed and furnished with power therefrom and what profits could be made from the operation of such mills."

The market value of the property as it existed when taken, not its value after a new plant had been constructed, should have been the controlling principle to guide the commissioners. True it is that the land owner is entitled to the fair market value of the property for the most advantageous uses to which it may be applied. (Matter of Furman Street 17 West, 651 U. S. vs. Chandler-Dunbar Co., 229 U. S. 53.) But that is the value of the property as it exists, not its value as it might be made to exist.

In appraising the value of the hypothetical plant, as well as the value of the property itself, the commissioners listened too much to evidence of value, as distinguished from the market value. It is not the value, but the market value of the property that must be ascertained. The courts all emphasize this principle. "The land owner . . . is entitled to receive its market value for any purpose to which in the judgment of the commissioners it is adapted." (Matter of Simmons, 130 App. Div. 350.) "The owner must be . . . paid its fair market value for all available uses and purposes." (U. S. vs. Chandler-Dunbar Co., 229 U. S. 53.) "What it was worth for sale," is the expression used in U. S. vs. First National Bank, 250 Fed. Rep. 239. But in this case I fear that the commission lost sight of the market value. There was very little proof of the market value of this property. So far as the property had ever been in the market the price at which it was bought and sold was so insignificant compared with the award that it would afford no basis whatever for the figure arrived at. There was expert evidence of the market value of the products of the new proposed hypothetical plant, and of the old plant, but it is the market value of the plant itself, the property taken, not its output, that constitutes the measure of damages.

It is argued that the claimant should not be prejudiced by the fact that it has not been able to develop the property to its full capacity. And that is true. A farm badly worked by a shiftless owner may be vastly more productive in the hands of a provident husbandman; and the owner, in such a case, if the land be taken by condemnation, is entitled to the market value of the property in a state of maximum productivity, as it would be under the management of a thrifty owner, but he is not entitled to its value after great modern barns and silos and buildings have been built. Neither can the true value of the property at the time it was taken, be ascertained by estimating the revenue it would yield after the erection of these expensive cattle barns and silos and structures. The claimant, in this case, must be compensated for what has been taken from it, but no modern 1,500 horse power hydro-electric plant has been taken from it.

I consider the damages excessive, although, perhaps, not shocking so. If the commission had arrived at a correct figure, or an approximately correct one, even by an erroneous process their determination ought not to be disturbed, and I should not feel that I ought to set aside this award except that the opinion reveals clearly to me that the commission was led to an erroneous conclusion, that is to an excessive award, by an erroneous theory. But counsel for the claimant asks whether the court should pit its judgment against that of the commission "without having made an investigation, or study of the locality." The court should not do so. I so held in the Sands case, 104 Misc. 427. Incidentally it might be proper to mention in this connection, although it is wholly irrelevant, that the court, in this instance, has personally visited the premises since the claimant's plant was destroyed and, in a casual way, studied the locality. My conviction, however, that the award is excessive does not flow out of my inspection of the property; on the contrary I was greatly impressed with the site and the water power and was convinced that the damage done to the claimant was substantial and irreparable. It is because the commission has placed a value upon something in addition to the property taken, that is, placed it upon the hypothetical plant, and added this value to the value of the property taken, that I consider the award excessive.

If a new commission becomes necessary it should be guided by the evidence presented to it and not be influenced either by the court's impressions of value or by the present commission's award. Perhaps by following a correct theory a new commission may arrive at the same, or even a greater, award of damages.

The claim is sent back for a new hearing. The city protests against a new hearing by the same commission, and therefore a new commission must be appointed.

The order may be settled on notice.

SUGGEST WAY TO DESTROY ANTS

Keeping Food Under Cover Is First Step in Campaign—Extermination of Colonies Aim.

In combating ants, the housekeeper should remember that they are attracted into a house by the prospect of getting food. This means, say the home specialists at Cornell, that all food must be kept covered. If the ants are numerous, it may be necessary to put the dish that contains food in another dish which contains water.

An easy method of killing ants is to soak small sponges in sweetened water and place them where the insects are most numerous. The ants will crawl into the pores of the sponges and may be killed by dropping the sponges into boiling water. If this is done faithfully, many of the insects will be destroyed, and the sudden loss of so many workers from the colony should cause the ants to abandon the house entirely.

Tarter emetic, mixed with four or five times its volume of sirup and placed about in shallow dishes, is said to be useful in controlling house ants. If some of this mixture is poured into individual butter plates and set about in a cupboard where ants are troublesome, or in a pantry that ants frequent, the pests may be driven away. It should be kept away from persons and from household pets.

The only really effective method of treating ants is to find the nest and kill the queen and the workers so that the whole colony will be exterminated. However, it may be hard to find the nest. Sometimes ants may be traced to their nests by baiting them with broken pieces of rice or farina. The ants will carry these pieces of white food to their nest and may be easily traced.

When the colony is found, it may be treated with carbon disulfide by pouring an ounce or two of the liquid into each of several holes made in the nest with a sharpened stick, after which the mouth of each hole should be quickly stopped with a clot of dirt.

A heavy wet blanket thrown over the nest will aid in retaining the gas and make the fumigation more effective. The liquid evaporates quickly and the gas permeates the whole nest, exterminating the colony. It must be remembered that the gas is inflammable and explosive, and that no fire should be brought near the place which is being fumigated.

Occurs Wednesday in Rondout Presbyterian Church.

The annual strawberry festival of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will be held Wednesday evening from 6 to 8 o'clock in the chapel. The following fine menu will be served: Creamed potatoes, boiled ham, tomato and lettuce salad, cheese balls with pimiento, jelly, pickles, raised biscuits, strawberry shortcake with whipped cream, tea, coffee and cocoa. The usual nominal price will be charged. The festival which is held every year in June is always largely attended.

A Syrian Weed.

When the Syrians besieged Samaria in Elisha's time, the famine was so severe, says II Kings 6:25, that "an ass' head was sold for four score pieces of silver and the fourth part of a cab of dove's dung for five pieces of silver." This "dove's dung" is a Syrian plant, spreading freely through the grass, opening its starry white flowers from eleven to four, whitening the fields. So the Greeks called it Oenithoval, meaning "bird's milk," but the Arabs "dove's dung." The butter is edible and therefore commanded a high price in a siege. The Revised Version of the Bible is no clearer than the Authorized, only changing the spelling to "bab." The modern name for this plant is "the Star of Bethlehem."

CHILDREN'S DAY AT CLINTON AVENUE CHURCH

The annual Children's Day exercises of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Sunday school will be held at the church on Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. An interesting program will be rendered consisting of drills, recitations, songs, class pieces, etc., and the collection will be for the Children's Educational Fund. An interesting feature will be the baptism of infants. A large attendance of members and friends of the congregation is expected.

Bore Him Out.
An English professor and his young assistant had been off on a long hunting trip and they were telling, or rather the professor was telling, about their wonderful adventures. At one point, where the long bow was being drawn, some of the hearers expressed skepticism, whereupon the professor said: "I assure you, gentlemen, that I am stating the truth. My young friend Whibley will bear me out." "Certainly," replied Whibley, "but young men bore Ananias out."—Boston Transcript.

"Factory Whistle" Alarm Old.
H. Diels, following a suggestion derived from the musician Aristocles, as quoted by Athenaeus, has presented a new reconstruction of the alarm device by Plato to wake the students of the academy, reports the Scientific American. A quantity of water suddenly released from an upper receptacle fills a lower, forcing the air in the latter through a pipe and so producing a sound which was an ancient anticipation of the modern factory whistle.

New York, June 9.—Activity and strength in railway shares featured the opening of the stock market today. Irregularity was noted in the industrial list. Price changes were small.

The market closed firm; government bond unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

COFFEY'S LICENSE TO BOX IS RESTORED.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, June 9.—The suspension of Vince Coffey of Kingston, welterweight boxer, has been lifted by the Massachusetts fight board and he will be allowed to box in this and other states soon, his manager, Jimmie Betts, says. Coffey has several fights in the making now and he is in training. Coffey has always been a good card here and it may be that he will be used by the Albany club with a good welterweight, Manager Betts also announced that Joe Schille, featherweight, will accompany him and Jimmie O'Hagen to the coast on a trip there.

New Overland Model.

The Willis-Overland Company have just put on the market a new sport model car, styled the Overland Red Bird. This new car has a wheel base of 106 inches and a spring base of 136 inches and is equipped with a larger and more powerful engine than the Overland light four. The body is roomier and the seats are wider and deeper. The car is also equipped with modern accessories associated with sport models.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Miss Grace Yunker died at her home in Bloomington this morning, following an illness of long duration. Funeral arrangements later.

Lorraine Marie Brandon, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brandon, died Friday evening. The funeral was held this afternoon from the family residence, 49 Gill street, with interment in Montrose Cemetery.

Horace B. Van Kuren, son of Margaret A. and the late Captain William Sayre Van Kuren died Friday at New York City. Committal services Sunday, June 10, upon the arrival of the 5:05 West Shore train, daylight saving time.

Mrs. William Shultz who died at her home in Shokan June 1, is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Alida Griffith, Dover, N. J., Mrs. G. Personeus, Shokan, and one son, Claude M. Rose, Boiceville, N. Y. She also has eight grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Funeral was held from the Ashokan M. E. Church by the Rev. G. O. Wiley, interment in Woodstock Cemetery.

Mrs. Walter Mulman died at an early hour this morning at the family residence, 37 Meadow street, following a brief illness. Besides her husband she is survived by two small children. An infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Mulman died on Wednesday afternoon. The funeral will be held from the late residence on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock and from the Immaculate Conception Church at 9:30 o'clock, where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment in Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Emma C. Van Kuren Boyce, widow of J. Henry Boyce, of Pine Bush, died Wednesday at her home after an illness of several weeks at the age of 64 years, 4 months and 11 days. She was born in Ulster county January 25, 1859, a daughter of James Van Kuren and Sarah McGowan. In June, 1888, in Pine Bush, Mrs. Boyce was married to J. Henry Boyce. She was a member of the Methodist Church. Surviving her are one daughter, Mrs. Reuben Weed; two brothers, James H. Van Kuren of Newburgh and William Van Kuren of Liberty, and three sisters, Mrs. Anna Muir of Jersey City, N. J.; Miss Louise Van Kuren and Mrs. T. S. Elder of Pine Bush. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home. Interment in New Prospect Cemetery.

The funeral of Christian Bennett was held from his late residence, 45 Stephen street, Friday, June 8, at 2:30 p. m. The services were conducted by the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe, pastor of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, of which he had been a consistent member for a number of years. He would have reached the remarkable age of ninety if he had lived until the first of October. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, and testified to the high esteem in which he was held by all who knew him. Mr. Bennett was a member of the G. A. R. and a number of its members were present to show their love and respect for one of their fellow members. They also assisted in the service at the grave. The Rev. Mr. Stowe paid a glowing tribute to the life of Mr. Bennett as a man and as a Christian, basing his remarks upon those memorable words found in Job, "Thou shalt come to thy grave in a full age, like as a shock of corn cometh in his season." The bearers were members of the family. The interment was in the family plot in Wiltwyck cemetery.

At 9:15 o'clock Thursday morning the funeral of Blanch Burr Linden, wife of Thomas F. Linden, who died at the family residence, 214 Foxhall avenue on Monday last, following an illness of an extended duration, took place and thence to St. Mary's Church where at 10 o'clock a solemn high Mass of requiem was celebrated for the repose of her soul, the celebrant being the Rev. George Facan, with the Rev. J. B. Scully as deacon and the Rev. Edmund P. Murray as subdeacon. The funeral services were very largely attended, the deceased having been one of Kingston's most popular young women, and her presence among the younger people will be greatly missed. The floral tributes, which were very numerous and beautiful, bespoke of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Besides her husband the deceased is survived by two small sons, James and Jack, her mother, Mrs. Mary Burr, and two sisters, Mrs. Edward Keuhn and Mrs. Bessie Cuff, and one brother, Frank Burr, all of this city. The children's choir of St. Mary's Church, assisted during the Mass and at the conclusion sang "Thy Will Be Done." The casket bearers were William Powers, John C. Mahoney, Daniel O'Meara, Dennis Murphy, D. J. Cahill and Cornelius Ryan. The Rev. Father Scully accompanied the funeral cortege to St. Mary's Cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest in the family plot after the pronouncing of the committal services.

Guys Fruit Farm.
Albert Lyons of St. Remy has sold his fruit farm at that place to John P. Remus of 23 Brewster street. Mr. Remus will move to the farm and erect a number of bungalows. The sale was made through the Frank DuFon real estate agency.

Society Notes

A Birthday Party.

A very pleasant birthday party took place at the home of Joseph Bastolo, 124 Broadway, in honor of his little son Frank. All present had an enjoyable time. Those present were: Lillian and Beatrice Diamond, John, Mary and Frank Bastolo. All departed wishing Master Frank many more happy birthdays.

Wolven-Wright.

Raymond E. Wolven, son of John Wolven of Partillon street, Saugerties and Mrs. Elsie Martin Wright, daughter of William Martin of Post street, Saugerties, were married in Yonkers Wednesday, June 6th, the Rev. J. S. Blair Larned performing the ceremony. The couple will make their home in Yonkers.

Littles-Eckert.

Miss Naomi Mae Eckert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Eckert of Walker Valley and William Decker Littles of Pine Bush were united in marriage on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Jones of Pine Bush in the presence of about fifty guests. Miss Milford A. Eckert, sister of the bride was maid of honor and Eugene H. Littles, brother of the groom was best man. The bride wore a gown of blue crepe de meteor with silver trimmings and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a gown of blue crepe de meteor with silver trimmings and carried a bouquet of white roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held. After a wedding trip they will reside in Pine Bush.

RALPH R. CONKLIN HAS OPENED A MACHINE SHOP.

Ralph R. Conklin has opened a machine shop at No. 76 Garden street and will carry on a business of general machine repairs. Mr. Conklin is a well known machinist of this city. At the present time he is busy on some repair work at the high school.

Allen One of Buyers.

Through error it was stated Friday in The Freeman that the large property on the corner of Broadway and Hoffman street, opposite the New York State Armory had been purchased by William J. Cranston and wife. It should have stated the purchasers were William J. Cranston and E. O. Allen. The sale was made through W. G. Hyatt of the Ulster Realty Agency.

Our Growing Population.

The following births have been reported to the board of health:
Mr. and Mrs. John Wolf, 145 Hunter street, a daughter, Dolores.
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Muhman, Meadow street, a son, Stephen.
Mr. and Mrs. Achilles Naccarato, 10 North street, a daughter, Josephine.

A Piano Sale.

Professor Charles Schuts, instructor in music and well known piano tuner, has purchased from the Thomas piano store at 261 Fair street a Mathushek parlor grand piano.

London's Shrine.

Religion is not the only purpose for which people frequent London's great shrine, St. Paul's cathedral. Many go there to sleep. When turned out at six they can go on to St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, which is open all night. Only devotional books are supposed to be read, but the vergers are constantly finding visitors reading popular novels. Others try to eat their lunch there, which is also forbidden. A number of lunatics wander into the building from time to time. Most of them are quite harmless. Sometimes visitors try leaving their luggage there for an hour or two and are upset to find it stolen. One of the attractions of St. Paul's is Holman Hunt's picture, "The Light of the World," which was once exhibited in Canada. In the crypt underneath, near the tombs of Nelson, Wellington, Roberts and Scott, is a bust of Sir John A. Macdonald, Canadian premier.

"Young Lady, Arise!"

There is at least one version of the Bible in modern English and several attempts have been made to put the New Testament story into a modern setting, but no improvement of the old version quite equals an Eighteenth century doctor of divinity, Edward Harwood, who, in the preface to his revised version of the Bible, claims to have cleared away "the bold and barbarous language of the old vulgar version," and to have "diffused over the sacred page the elegance of modern English." In the Harwood Bible the daughter of Imrus is raised from the dead with the exhortation, "Young lady, arise," and St. Peter at the Transfiguration is made to say: "Oh, sir! What a delectable residence we might fix here." The phrase, "Jesus wept," is expanded into "The Creator of the world burst into a flood of tears."

Flanders.

The Flemish form of the name Flanders is Vlaenderen, and the word means the country of the Flemish. The Flanders of the Middle Ages was a self-governing counship, that is, a country whose ruler was a count, but at times it was under the suzerainty of France, and sometimes under that of the empire which then included the Germanic states. The Flanders of the Middle Ages is today divided between France and Belgium, the greater part being included in Belgium, and two provinces in the western part of the latter country are known as East and West Flanders, the latter fronting on the North sea. Practically all the country that formed the Flanders of the Middle Ages is low and level; hence it was commonly called the Low country.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

BOY SCOUTS PROTECT BIRDS

A pair of robins built their nest upon the fire escape opposite a window of the dormitory at the State Industrial school of Utah. Wouldn't you think robins would have better sense than to build a nest near a dormitory window of a school where the boys have been committed for criminal mischief?

Some of the boys planned to kill the birds and destroy the nest.

There is a troop of boy scouts at the school—boys who have become scouts since going to school. They are under Scoutmaster C. W. Wimmer.

The scouts discovered the plot to kill the birds. Immediately they set a guard of one of their number to protect them. Then they induced the other boys to swear protection to the robins. From the dormitory window they watched the nest fill with eggs; they watched the father and mother birds take their turns on the nest. They learned a lesson in devotion to duty. They learned that even robins know paternal love.

One day the eggs were hatched. Can you imagine the excitement—the delight? The parent birds hopped around "proud as punch." Can you imagine it—those kids went out and dug worms for the whole robin family. The next year the old robin folks came back to rebuild.

Scouting did that for those boys. In place of a desire to kill and destroy, there was created a desire to protect and aid and help. They learned a lesson in the wonder of life. Probably their hearts were a little inclined to the Great Power that creates life. Will they be better men because of this?

THE SCOUT SMILE.

The eighth scout law says: "A scout is cheerful. He smiles whenever he can. His obedience to orders is prompt and cheery. He never shirks or crumbles at hardships." This lad from Coshocton, Ohio, abides by his law, as you can see.

BOY SCOUTS STUDY BIRDS

Bird banding is a novel "good turn" that Livingston (Mont.) scouts are rendering to the government.

"The scouts have been catching birds of various varieties in a little sparrow trap, luring them with bits of chopped meat or a handful of grain," says the Livingston Enterprise, "and, after encircling their tiny legs with equally tiny aluminum bands, they have set them free again."

"The bands are procured from the government. When a bird is banded, the data is sent to Washington—the number, the variety of the bird and the date of banding. These records are filed and if, for instance, one of these birds is found in Florida, or Canada, the number is sent in to Washington and the Montana station is notified."

"In this way the flight of birds, and when their age, may be discovered. It can be learned whether the same birds come back to the same place year after year, etc."

BOY SCOUTS AID AUTOISTS

Two women autoists of Watertown, N. Y., declare themselves hearty admirers of the scout spirit. On a recent stormy day their car, unable to climb an icy hill, was stalled. The occupants were in despair of making the ascent from the frozen highway, until a group of boy scouts passing by promptly lent assistance and pushed their car up the grade, enabling the autoists to reach the city.

SCOUT OATH: HONOR SYSTEM

An evidence of the practical working of the scout oath, in school as well as in work and play, is contained in the following recent statement of Scout Commissioner J. L. Ryan of Chattanooga, Tenn. "A boy who takes the scout oath can't go wrong. I have in mind the remark of a local high school principal who said that of all the scouts he had taught out of the thousands of boys who have been under him, not one boy scout had been guilty of a serious infraction of school rules."

Large Heads and Brains.

It is not the size of the brain but the texture that determines the quality. We have the authority of eminent surgeons for the statement that the majority of large heads generally contain a spongy, watery brain.

David Carnegie, Earl of Northesk, England, and Miss Jessica Brown, former "Follies" dancer, of Buffalo, New York, have learned for themselves the truth of the old saw that true love never runs smoothly. The Earl came to the United States to wed the winsome Jessica, whom he had met and with whom he had fallen in love during her London appearance, but the couple were denied a marriage license by an obdurate bureau clerk in New York on the ground that there was some doubt as to the legality of Jessica's divorce from her first husband, Cyril DeWitt Reinhard, in Illinois. Then Cyril himself appeared on the scene with the declaration that Jessica was "not yet through" with him, and threatened action against the dancer if she wed. Her divorce decree, he said, is not legal. The Earl and Jessica have planned to go to Canada for the wedding. It is said.

SAVED His Money To Pay TAXES!

The Residence of Mr. Jones required painting.

Several Painters were consulted before selecting the Paint to be used.

One Painter said use "Ready-Mixed" costing $3.75 to $4.00 a gallon.

Another Painter suggested White Lead with Linseed Oil at $3.15 and make color desired.

But—a third Painter said you don't have to pay such high prices—use

L. & M. SEMI-PASTE PAINT—because it spreads over more surface and is more durable than the White Lead alone—and

The cost is only $2.82 per gallon, because into every 4 gallons of the Semi-Paste Paint, 3 additional gallons of Linseed Oil, are mixed, to make a total of 7 gallons of the Best Pure Paint when ready to use.

L. & M. SEMI-PASTE PAINT always best and least cost.

HUDSON RIVER GIANTS
ORGANIZED FOR THE SEASON
Andrew J. Murphy, the Strand sporting dealer, has on exhibition in his window one of the uniforms of the Hudson River Giants. The Hudson River Giants are a team composed of colored players from Staples's brickyard at East Kingston. The team is reputed to be one of the fastest in the Hudson valley and they will open their season in the near future.

Affluence.
Our idea of affluence used to be two pairs of suspenders. Later we chanked that to the belief that luxury consisted of being able to buy golf balls by the box. Now we are of the opinion that absolute independence must be to be able to buy a complete set of new ties for the car whenever the old ones begin to show signs of wearing out.—Exchange.

BASEBALL GAMES OVER WEEK END

The following semi-pro games will be played in this vicinity over the week-end:

Saturday.
Kingston Colonials vs. Oneonta,
at Kingston.
Coxsackie vs. Stottville, at Stottville.
Schatz vs. Ossining, at Poughkeepsie.

Sunday.
Kingston Colonials vs. Oneonta,
at Kingston.
Grogans of Watervliet vs. Utica
K. of C., at Utica.
Edmores of Albany vs. Greenwich, at Greenwich.
D. & H. Generals of Watervliet
vs. Brooklyn Royal Giants, at Watervliet. (2 games).
Rhinebeck vs. Red Hook, at Red Hook.
Schatz of Poughkeepsie vs. Kennedy All Stars of Yonkers, at Yonkers.

Outside of the two games between the Colonials and Oneonta the game which will very likely attract the most attention in this vicinity is the one between Rhinebeck and Red Hook. Buckley will have his five Dean Academy players with him again on Sunday, and he expects to repeat his victory of Decoration Day. Red Hook is reported to be loaded for the contest. Whether this report is true or not it is pretty certain that Freddie Rossback will be in the box for Manager Miller.

It is no small part of the that Packard cars are made economically over a long period of years.

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

PACKARD

Next to the pleasure of owning a Packard Single-Six is this satisfaction of knowing you have purchased a car of long life. It undoubtedly accounts in large measure for the regard in which the car is held purely as a practical investment.

Plans are under way. It has been ascertained, for the development of a huge, unified, privately-owned electrical system, capable of supplying the power needs of the entire country. They are being backed by the Westinghouse Electric Company, Guy E. Tripp, chairman of the company's board of directors, has admitted. Fulfillment of the plans, requiring years, would entail an investment of five billion dollars and an increase of probably a billion a year in money spent for electricity.
It would offer a practical method of electrifying all of the country's steam railroads, however. Frank G. Baum, consulting engineer of San Francisco, has developed the idea beyond the theory stage.

Human Will.
Be who uses only a fraction of his active gifts is not only holding himself back, but he is thwarting the efforts of others. And for the remedy for his limitations he is looking everywhere else but the right place—within himself. What one wants to do, he may do. What he wants to have, he may have. What he would become is within his reach. The exceptions to this rule are not worth mentioning. Our will is the master of our destiny.—Grit

Selfishly Prodigious Breeder.
Supposing a great anti-housefly candign were so successful that only one specimen was left alive in the world, should we be rid of these obnoxious pests? Hardly, for the housefly can increase with amazing speed. If all survived, the descendents of a single fly would number 50,000 000,000 before the end of the summer.
If all these could be killed in a campaign, 5,000 carts would be needed to remove the slain!
